

ASK YOUR PARENTS

Seasonal Trivia:

Today is the first day of spring. At 7:07pm this evening, the _____ occurs.

Equinox means_____.

The sun is shining directly over the _____.

The first day of summer is _____.

This is called the _____.

_____means sun standing still.

On this date, the northern hemisphere gets _____.

The sun is shining directly over the _____.

It is located at how many degrees latitude_____.

The Arctic Circle is located at_____.

The tilt of the earth is _____.

Did you ever wonder that these two things added up equal to the latitude of the North Pole and that the Tropic of Cancer is the same as the tilt?

What happens north of the Arctic Circle on the first day of summer?

What happens south of the Arctic Circle on the first day of winter?

Seasons first day:

Winter

Summer

Spring

Fall